

John K. Warren

John Warren has more than 30 years experience in the petroleum and minerals industries, he holds a doctorate from Flinders University of South Australia and is a graduate of the University of Adelaide. He is currently a Director of SaltWork Consultants Pte Ltd, Adelaide, Australia and a Professor in the Graduate School of Petroleum Geoscience at Chulalongkorn University, Thailand. Prior to this, he held the Shell Chair in Carbonate Studies at Sultan Qaboos University, Oman. Before that, he was a contract Professor at Universiti Brunei Darussalam. In a former life as a fulltime bureaucrat, he was Professor of Petroleum Geology and Director of the Key Centre for Resource Exploration in the School of Applied Geology at Curtin University in Perth, Western Australia. In the 1980s and early 90s, he was a faculty member of the University of Texas at Austin and the National Centre of Petroleum Geology and Geophysics in Adelaide.

Dr Warren's research centres on rock matrix characterisation in carbonate and evaporite-related hydrocarbon reservoirs and ore deposits, including the reliable scaling of wireline, brine and rock-property data into reservoir and ore deposit models. He specialises in applied aspects of carbonate-evaporite studies and is the author/compiler of the SaltWork GIS database. He has written numerous papers and a number of books on various aspects of applied sedimentology and consulted widely in the minerals and petroleum industries.

He has worked as a consultant on rock and brine characterisation problems in metal and hydrocarbon exploration programmes conducted by various companies including ADNOC, Asia-Pacific Potash, BHP Billiton Petroleum, BHP Billiton Resources, Chevron International, Exxon International, Fortescue Metals, Homestake, Husky Oil, MMG, Nexen, NIOC, Nutrien, Pasminco, PTTEP, Santos, Saudi Aramco, Shell International, Statoil, Vietnam Petroleum Institute, and others. He has also served as a technical expert in evaporites for the AAPG, BBC, IHRDC, and New World Horizons. Dr Warren has served on World Bank Panel of Experts and also serves on the Editorial Board of the Journal of Petroleum Geology.
